

Patrick J. Buchanan

The Remainderman

Donald Trump won more votes in the Iowa caucuses than any Republican candidate in history.

Impressive, except Ted Cruz set the new all-time record.

And Marco Rubio exceeded all expectations by taking 23 percent.

Cruz won Tea Party types, Evangelicals, and the hard right.

Trump won the populists and nationalists who want the borders secure, no amnesty, and no more trade deals that enable rival powers like China to disembowel American industries.

And Rubio? He is what columnist Mark Shields called Jimmy Carter, 35 years ago, "the remainderman of national politics. He gets what's left over after his opponents have taken theirs by being the least unacceptable alternative to the greatest number of voters."

Marco is the fallback position of a reeling establishment that is appalled by Trump, loathes Cruz, and believes Rubio -- charismatic, young, personable -- can beat Hillary Clinton.

But there is a problem here for the establishment.

While Rubio has his catechism down cold -- "I'll tear up that Iran deal my first day in office!" -- his victory would mean a rejection of the populist revolt that arose with Trump's entry and has grown to be embraced by a majority of Republicans.

Cruz, Trump, Carson -- the outsiders -- won over 60 percent of all caucus votes. Their anti-Washington messages, Trump and Cruz's especially, grew the GOP turnout to its largest in history, 186,000, half again as many as participated in the record turnout of 2012.

Most significant, 15,000 more Iowans voted in GOP caucuses than the Democratic caucuses, where participation plummeted 30 percent from 2008.

What does this portend?

While Iowa has gone Democratic in 6 of the last 7 presidential elections, it is now winnable by Republicans -- on two conditions.

The party must be united. And it cannot lose the fire and energy that produced this turnout and brought out those astonishing crowds of tens of thousands.

The remainderman, however, cannot reproduce that energy or those crowds. For Rubio is not a barn burner; he is a malleable man of maneuver.

Arriving in Washington to the cheers of populists reveling in his rout of Charlie Crist, Rubio went native and signed on to the Schumer-McCain amnesty.

He voted for "fast track," the GOP's pre-emptive surrender of Congress's constitutional power to amend trade treaties. He hailed the Trans-Pacific Partnership trade treaty President Obama brought home.

Now he is moving crabwise away from TPP. Shiftiness, however, does not bother the establishment, it reassures the establishment.

Rubio is "The Hustler," the "Fast Eddie" Felson of 2016. And the Beltway is all in behind him.

He is now the candidate of the Washington crowd that a majority of Republicans voted to reject in Iowa, the darling of the donor class, and the last hope of a Beltway punditocracy that recoils whenever the pitchforks appear.

Which brings us to the antithesis of Rubio -- Bernie Sanders.

Given where he started a year ago, a sparring partner for the heavyweight Clinton, and where he ended, a split decision and a coin toss, the Brooklyn-born Socialist was the big winner of Iowa.

In the Democratic race, it is Sanders who has been getting the Trump-sized crowds, while Hillary and Bill Clinton have been playing to what look like audiences at art films in the 1950s.

Sanders will likely have the best night of his campaign Tuesday -- if Hillary Clinton's surge does not overtake him -- when he wins New Hampshire.

After that, however, absent celestial intervention, such as a federal prosecutor being inspired to indict Clinton, he begins a long series of painful defeats until his shining moment at the convention.

But just as a stifling of the Trump-Cruz-Carson rebellion, with another establishment favorite like Rubio, would bank all the fires of enthusiasm in the GOP, Clinton's rout of Sanders would cause millions of progressives and young people who rallied to Bernie to give up on 2016.

And if both the Sanders' revolution that captured half his party in Iowa, and the Trump-Cruz revolt that captured half of their party are squelched, and we get an establishment Republican vs. an establishment Democrat in the fall, America will be sundered.

For there is not one America today, nor two. Politically, there are at least four.

Were this Britain or France, the GOP would have long ago split between its open-borders, globalist, war party wing, and its populist, patriotic, social conservative wing.

The latter would be demanding a timeout on immigration, secure borders, no amnesty, no more needless wars, and a trade policy dictated by what was best for America, not Davos or Dubai.

Democrats would break apart along the lines of the Clinton-Sanders divide, with the neo-socialists becoming a raucous and robust anti-big bank, anti-Wall Street, soak-the-rich and share-the-wealth party.

These splits may be postponed again in 2016, but these rebellions are going to reappear until they succeed in overthrowing our failed establishments.

For the causes that produced such revolutions -- Third World invasions, income inequality, economic torpor, culture wars, the real and relative decline of the West -- have become permanent conditions.

Democrat Infiltration into MassGOP Has Finally Taken Its Toll

by Mary Lou Daxland

President, Massachusetts Republican Assembly, the "Conservative Wing of the Republican Party," and Candidate for Re-election, Republican State Committee

The MASSGOP has been on life support for years. I don't like to say that RINOs (Republicans In Name Only) are in control of the party because it is far worse: Democrats with Democrat values have had the keys to the MassGOP for years. You don't become a one-party state without infiltration of the opposition into the Party.

Before getting elected last year in a special 'caucus' vote, I spent eight years sitting in the back of the room at State Committee meetings and have witnessed a most dysfunctional group of people. As state R enrollment ticked downward, Membership Chair and State Committeeman Matt Sisk reported "nothing to report," meeting after meeting. Then one meeting he reported that "they tried doing something with the college kids, but it didn't work out." Really? Maybe the problem was bow-tie Matt (Matt is noted for his bow ties). The Democrats have been winning over college students for years, but it didn't work out for the Republicans. A very lame excuse for doing nothing.

I have watched two party chairs, Jennifer Nasour and Kirsten Hughes, make fools of themselves because they did not have a clue on how to conduct a meeting. Vice Chair Kangas usually came to their rescue. It seems that meetings were only to get together and drink - there is a constant flow of in-and-out at the meetings to the bar. Many members over the years have been clocked as spending more time at the bar than at the meetings. I sat behind two state committeemen who were retiring in 2012. They lamented that they really didn't drink enough over the years at the meetings. Can't make this stuff up.

Committeeman Luke Noble conducted a candidate training program up on the North Shore in 2013. The guest speaker was a Democrat! The main theme of the speech was that Republican candidates need to be more like the Democrats. So what happened to: "Let's be more like Republicans"? Luke - as one of the Baker/establishment-endorsed candidates for State Committee - was somehow chosen to be the spokesperson for a MassSave energy savings commercial this past month. So Luke's face is all over the local TV airways. Nice way of getting free advertising for your State Committee race. Vote Lawrence "Lonnie" Brennan in the First Essex and Middlesex District. Noble has to go.

The new crop of State Committee men and women that came in 2012 was a breath of fresh air. They took their jobs seriously and helped to make some changes these past few years. One very obvious change was less time spent at the bar. They've worked the bylaws and platform and worked hard to get local candidates elected; they spent days getting signatures for Tank the Gas Tax and End Common Core ballot questions. They debated and stood their ground on principles that the Republican Party has always stood for.

I myself was caucused in this past July by the RTCs and RCCs in my district because the previous state committeewoman resigned. Very strange, I might add, not sitting in the back of the room with people who come to see just how bad things have become. The Party leadership is now the west wing of the Democrat party.

So how are all these hard working Committee members, including myself, being rewarded? With a challenger to our seats this election cycle on March 1st.

Governor Baker has declared war on conservatives and wants to rid the Committee of them. But he really did not do a good job vetting his "team." You really want to keep the Democrat Party in control when you recruit candidates that work for the state or the Baker administration and can't fundraise (according to state law). So how are you going to build a Party that is flat-lined when you have a State Committee dominated by members who can't transparency and clarity to all that they do.

Infiltrators and Democrat Cheerleaders, page 6

Don't Let the Empire Strike Back - Vote Brennan, MARCH 1st

continued from page 1

How's that working out for us?

If you haven't checked lately, Democrats control all congressional offices, almost all Senate and House seats, and all state-wide offices with the exception of the governor's slot.

I think we could do better and I think building an opposition party, a party that will protect families and our children and not put illegal immigrants ahead of legal immigrants and U.S. citizens, is the right thing to do.

Unfortunately, the Republican State Committee is a left-leaning enterprise, riddled with liberals. Prior to the last election cycle, the Committee was lopsided with approximately 75% establishment liberals. After that election, the Committee gained many non-establishment members and came in more balanced at perhaps only 60% establishment liberals.

Now, the establishment is poised to strike back, and has placed, endorsed and is backing with all means possible (including using taxpayer paid time and treasure - see other articles) to drive any non-establishment members from the Committee.

I believe in balance. I believe that all sides should have representation, and I believe we should make a place on the Committee for those who stand firmly against illegal immigration, against unbridled spending, and those gaming the system.

Personally, I have to tell you, I'm a long-shot candidate against an affable establishment-backed candidate. I ask for your vote if you are in my district (more on page 11), but more importantly, I ask that everyone consider voting for non-establishment candidates. Please see charts, pages 8 and 9.

VOTE TUESDAY MARCH 1ST

Republican State Committee

Ratings - www.VoteCoreValues.org

Look around. How many Republican elected officials are there in this state? Not many:

- Of 160 state representatives: 30
- Of the 40 state senators: 3
- Of the 11 Washington offices: zero
- Of state-wide offices other than governor: 0, zipo, nada, nunca, nothing.

Meanwhile, the Republican State Committee, the 80-member policy-making and managing group responsible for the Republican party voice, goals, and campaign initiatives continues to flounder. And candidates for the 2016 election cycle? As scarce as donuts at a Weight Watchers® meeting.

On www.VoteCoreValues.org, candidates are rated on their votes and declared positions on a number of core beliefs and values that are controversial, yet important to some voters, including guns, taxes, abortion, etc. The site is currently being updated for the 2016 election season and displays the current state committee and opponents. We've re-printed the charts on these pages. Refer to the website for updates. Regarding the votes cited:

- A: A YES voted defended the current method of selecting delegates to the national convention. A NO vote would allow the party elites to choose their own delegates.
- B: Party platform vote to more closely match the national platform, including noting that abortion is a tragedy, and that the strongest, most natural family unit for raising a child includes both a mother and father.
- C: Supports disclosure of Chairman's salary prior to his/her election.
- D: Anti-Establishment Pledge that affirms traditional conservative values, opposes illegal immigration, and defends the 2nd Amendment - read the entire pledge at www.VoteCoreValues.org.

| Note: Gov't Employees Cannot Solicit Funds for Candidates |                        | AGRASS-ROOTS DELEGATE VOTE | BCONSERVATIVE PLATFORM | CSALARY TRANSPARENCY | DSigned Anti-Establishment Pledge | Comments  |
|---|------------------------|--------------------------------|----------------------------|--------------------------|---------------------------------------|---|
| Berkshire, Hampshire, Franklin & Hampden                  | MIKE CASE              | NO                             | Missed Vote                | NO                       |                                       | ESTABLISHMENT, & Gov't Employee   |
|   | MATTHEW W. KINNAMAN    | YES                            | YES                        | YES                      |                                       | REFORMER  |
| Bristol & Norfolk   | DOMINICK M. IANNO      |                                |                            |                          | NO                                    | ESTABLISHMENT   |
|   | JEFFREY R. BAILEY      | YES                            | YES                        | YES                      | YES                                   | REFORMER  |
|   | ANGELA F. DAVIS        | NO                             | YES                        | NO                       | NO                                    | ESTABLISHMENT   |
|   | MAURA HARDING CLOW     | YES                            | YES                        | YES                      | YES                                   | REFORMER  |
| First Bristol and Plymouth                                | DAVID L. STEINHOF      | YES                            | YES                        | YES                      | YES                                   | REFORMER  |
|   | NORMAN J. ORRALL       |                                |                            |                          | NO                                    | ESTABLISHMENT   |
|   | MARY LOU DAXLAND       | YES                            | YES                        | YES                      | YES                                   | REFORMER  |
|   | NANCY C. STANTON-CROSS |                                |                            |                          | NO                                    | ESTABLISHMENT, and multiple $$ donations to Democrats (Fiola, when opposed by a Republican!)        |
| Second Bristol and Plymouth                               | DEBORAH A. FURTADO     | YES                            | YES                        | YES                      | YES                                   | REFORMER  |
|   | JILL MARIE USSACH      | NO                             | No-Show for Vote           | NO                       | NO                                    | ESTABLISHMENT   |
| Cape & Islands  | RONALD R. BEATY, JR    | YES                            | YES                        | YES                      | YES                                   | REFORMER  |
|   | DEVIN MANNING          | YES                            |                            |                          | YES                                   | REFORMER  |
|   | FRANCIS P. MANZELLI    | NO                             | No-Show for Vote           | NO                       | NO                                    | ESTABLISHMENT   |
| 1st Essex   | DANIEL GRAYTON         | YES                            | YES                        | YES                      | YES                                   | REFORMER  |
|   | SHAUN P. TOOHEY        |                                |                            |                          | NO                                    | ESTABLISHMENT   |
| 2nd Essex   | ANN D. RICHARD         | YES                            | YES                        | YES                      | YES                                   | REFORMER  |
|   | NANCY J. LUTHER        | NO                             | No-Show for Vote*          | NO                       | NO                                    | ESTABLISHMENTNo-show who then penned an OP-ED in the Globe in which she misrepresented the facts. |
| 1st Essex and Middlesex                                   | LAWRENCE BRENNAN       | YES                            | YES                        | YES                      | YES                                   | REFORMER  |
|   | LUCAS J. NOBLE         | No-Show for Vote               | No-Show for Vote           | NO                       | NO                                    | ESTABLISHMENT   |
|   | ANGELA Q. HUDAK        | YES                            | YES                        | YES                      | YES                                   | REFORMERExceptionally well-known volunteer for many candidates.                                   |
|   | JANET A. VINCZE        |                                |                            |                          | NO                                    | ESTABLISHMENT   |
| 2nd Essex and Middlesex                                   | RUTH JEANNE CHOU       | YES                            | YES                        | YES                      | YES                                   | REFORMER  |
|   | SUSAN M. LAPLANTE      |                                |                            |                          | NO                                    | ESTABLISHMENT   |
| Hampden   | MARK D. BERGERON       | YES                            | See notes.                 | YES                      | YES                                   | REFORMER (Voted no on platform vote and argued because he wanted an even stronger)                    |
|   | THOMAS S. BALCOM, JR   |                                |                            |                          | NO                                    | ESTABLISHMENT   |
| 1st Hampden & Hampshire                                   | THOMAS A. MCCARTHY     | YES                            | YES                        | YES                      | YES                                   | REFORMER  |
|   | ROBERT A. GROVE        |                                |                            |                          | NO                                    |   |
|   | ALEXANDER J. SHERMAN   |                                |                            |                          | NO                                    |   |
|   | DEBORAH L. MARTELL     | YES                            | YES                        | YES                      | Wants stronger, conservative pledge.  | REFORMER  |
|   | LILLIAN GRAY           |                                |                            |                          |                                       | ESTABLISHMENT (put up to knock out conservative)  |

| Note: Gov't Employees Cannot Solicit Funds for Candidates |                             | AGRASS-ROOTS DELEGATE VOTE | BCONSERVATIVE PLATFORM | CSALARY TRANSPARENCY | DSigned Anti-Establishment Pledge | Comments   |
|---|-----------------------------|--------------------------------|----------------------------|--------------------------|---------------------------------------|--|
| Hampshire, Franklin, & Worcester                          | TAMMY S. MOSHER             | YES                            | YES                        | YES                      | YES                                   | REFORMER   |
|   | MARY L. STUART              |                                |                            |                          | NO                                    | ESTABLISHMENT  |
| 1st Middlesex   | DENNIS J. GALVIN            | YES                            | YES                        | YES                      | YES                                   | REFORMER   |
|   | JORDAN JOHN GYS             |                                |                            |                          | NO                                    | ESTABLISHMENT  |
|   | GEORJANN A. MCGAHA          | YES                            | YES                        | YES                      | YES                                   | REFORMER   |
|   | SHEILA C. HARRINGTON        |                                |                            |                          | NO                                    | ESTABLISHMENT, State Rep., Argued against Justina Pelletier's family on House floor. |
| 2nd Middlesex   | ROBERT L. CAPPUCCI, JR.     | YES                            | YES                        | YES                      | YES                                   | REFORMER   |
|   | JOHN B. MILLER              |                                |                            |                          | REFUSED TO SIGN                       | ESTABLISHMENT  |
|   | BERNARD J. GREEN            |                                |                            |                          |                                       |  |
| 3rd Middlesex   | JAMES E. DIXON              | YES                            | YES                        | YES                      | YES                                   | REFORMER   |
|   | JOHN GOLNIK                 |                                |                            |                          | NO                                    | ESTABLISHMENT, & Gov't Employee  |
|   | PETER DULCHINOS             | YES                            | YES                        | NO                       | YES                                   | ESTABLISHMENTHistory of voting with establishment.                               |
| 4th Middlesex   | SEAN HARRINGTON             | YES                            | YES                        | YES                      | YES                                   | REFORMER   |
|   | SCOTT MICHAEL BRINCH        |                                |                            |                          | NO                                    | ESTABLISHMENT, & Gov't Employee  |
| 5th Middlesex   | ROBERT E. AUFIERO           | YES                            | YES                        | YES                      | YES                                   | REFORMER   |
|   | DAVID DARCANGELO            |                                |                            |                          | NO                                    | ESTABLISHMENT, & Gov't Employee  |
|   | CAROLINE COLARUSSO          | YES                            | YES                        | YES                      |                                       | REFORMER   |
|   | ALICE K. SHATTUCK           |                                |                            |                          | Refused to Sign                       | ESTABLISHMENT  |
| First Middlesex & Norfolk                                 | JOSHUA GARY NORMAN          | YES                            | YES                        | YES                      | YES                                   | REFORMER   |
|   | TOM MOUNTAIN                | YES                            | YES                        | YES                      | YES                                   | REFORMER, Long-time Newton RTC Chair   |
|   | PETER SMITH LORENZ          |                                |                            |                          | NO                                    | ESTABLISHMENT, & State Employee  |
|   | CHARLES VINCENT GRILLO, JR. |                                |                            |                          | NO                                    |  |
| 2nd Middlesex & Norfolk                                   | MARTIN A. LAMB              | YES                            | YES                        | YES                      | YES                                   | REFORMER, Long-time Newton RTC Chair.  |
|   | EDWARD BERGIN MCGRATH       | NO                             | YES                        | NO                       | NO                                    | ESTABLISHMENT, & Gov't Employee  |
|   | PATRICIA M. VANARIA         | YES                            | YES                        | YES                      | YES                                   | REFORMER   |
|   | JANET LEOMBRUNO             | NO                             | NO-SHOW for Vote           | NO                       | NO                                    | ESTABLISHMENT, & Gov't Employee  |
| Middlesex & Suffolk                                       | TODD B. TAYLOR              | YES                            | YES                        | YES                      |                                       | REFORMER   |
|   | MICHAEL ARA Y ACOBIAN       |                                |                            |                          |                                       | ESTABLISHMENT  |
| Middlesex & Worcester                                     | PAUL R. FERRO               | YES                            | YES                        | YES                      | YES                                   | REFORMER   |
|   | BRIAN P. BURKE              | YES                            | YES                        | NO                       | NO                                    | ESTABLISHMENT, & Gov't Employee  |
| First Middlesex & Norfolk                                 | ANN M. BARNDT               | YES                            | YES                        | YES                      | YES                                   | REFORMER   |
|   | JEANNE S. KANGAS            | YES                            | NO                         | NO-SHOW for Vote         | NO                                    | ESTABLISHMENT, & Gov't Employee  |
| Norfolk, Bristol, & Middlesex                             | EARL H. SHOLLEY             | YES                            | YES                        | YES                      | YES                                   | REFORMER   |
|   | CARL G. NELSON              |                                |                            |                          | NO                                    | ESTABLISHMENT  |

| Note: Gov't Employees Cannot Solicit Funds for Candidates |                        | A GRASS-ROOTS DELEGATE VOTE | B CONSERVATIVE PLATFORM | C SALARY TRANSPARENCY | D Signed Anti-Establishment Pledge | Comments                        |
|---|------------------------|-----------------------------|-------------------------|-----------------------|------------------------------------|---------------------------------|
| Norfolk, Bristol, & Plymouth                              | STEVEN D. FRUZZETTI    | YES                         | YES                     | YES                   |                                    | REFORMER                        |
|   | THOMAS W. STANTON      | NO                          | NO-SHOW for Vote        | NO                    | NO                                 | ESTABLISHMENT, & Gov't Employee |
|   | PATRICIA A. LOCKE      | YES                         | YES                     | YES                   |                                    | REFORMER                        |
|   | MIMI SUNDSTROM         | NO                          | YES                     | NO                    |                                    | ESTABLISHMENT, & Gov't Employee |
| Norfolk & Plymouth  | STEPHEN F. TOUGAS      | YES                         | YES                     | YES                   | YES                                | REFORMER                        |
|   | MATTHEW R. SISK        | NO-SHOW for Vote            | NO                      | NO                    | NO                                 | ESTABLISHMENT, & Gov't Employee |
|   | PATRICK JAMES VERHAULT |                             |                         |                       |                                    |                                 |
|   | JAYME O. ALLAN         | YES                         | YES                     | YES                   | YES                                | REFORMER                        |
|   | MARY E. GALLAGHER      |                             |                         |                       | NO                                 | ESTABLISHMENT, & Gov't Employee |
| Plymouth & Barnstable                                     | LINDA M. ZUERN         | YES                         | YES                     | YES                   | YES                                | REFORMER                        |
|   | BARBARA A. McCOY       | NO                          | NO                      | NO                    | NO                                 | ESTABLISHMENT                   |
| 1st Plymouth & Bristol                                    | BRIAN S. KENNEDY       | YES                         | YES                     | YES                   | YES                                | REFORMER                        |
|   | MARK E. TOWNSEND       | NO                          | YES                     | NO                    | NO                                 | ESTABLISHMENT                   |
|   | JULIANNE C. CUMMINGS   | YES                         | YES                     | YES                   | YES                                | REFORMER                        |
|   | KIM M. PALMER          | NO                          | NO                      | NO                    | NO                                 | ESTABLISHMENT                   |
| 2nd Plymouth & Bristol                                    | LESLIE J. MOLYNEAUX    | YES                         | YES                     | YES                   | YES                                | REFORMER                        |
|   | GORDON C. ANDREWS      | NO                          | NO                      | NO                    | NO                                 | ESTABLISHMENT                   |
|   | KIM M. NOTARANGELO     | YES                         | YES                     | YES                   | YES                                | REFORMER                        |
|   | JEANIE FALCONE         | NO                          | NO                      | NO                    | NO                                 | ESTABLISHMENT                   |
| Plymouth & Norfolk  | PETER J. BUCKLEY       | YES                         | YES                     | YES                   | YES                                | REFORMER                        |
|   | MATTHEW B. LEBRETTON   |                             |                         |                       | NO                                 | ESTABLISHMENT                   |
| 1st Suffolk   | LORI B. KELLY          | YES                         | YES                     | YES                   | YES                                | REFORMER                        |
|   | PATRICIA A. JENNINGS   | NO                          | NO-SHOW for Vote        | NO                    | NO                                 | ESTABLISHMENT                   |
| 2nd Suffolk   | BRENDAN H. O'CONNELL   | YES                         | YES                     | YES                   | YES                                | REFORMER                        |
|   | GEORGE JOHN RIGAS      |                             |                         |                       | NO                                 | ESTABLISHMENT                   |

| Note: Gov't Employees Cannot Solicit Funds for Candidates |                               | A GRASS-ROOTS DELEGATE VOTE | B CONSERVATIVE PLATFORM | C SALARY TRANSPARENCY | D Signed Anti-Establishment Pledge | Comments  |
|---|-------------------------------|-----------------------------|-------------------------|-----------------------|------------------------------------|---|
| 1st Suffolk & Middlesex                                   | JOYCE M. KELLY                | YES                         | YES                     | YES                   | YES                                | REFORMER  |
|   | LAURA CHRISTINE KEEHNER RIGAS |                             |                         |                       | NO                                 | ESTABLISHMENT, Gov't Employee, recently moved into district                           |
| 2nd Suffolk & Middlesex                                   | STEVEN W. AYLWARD             | YES                         | YES                     | YES                   | YES                                | REFORMER, Chair Tank the Automatic Gas Tax Committee                                  |
|   | NEIL EDWARD ST. CLAIR         |                             |                         |                       | NO                                 | ESTABLISHMENT. New to Mass. from N.Y. (last registered there as Democrat)             |
| 1st Worcester   | CHRISTOPHER P. PINTO          | YES                         | YES                     | YES                   | YES                                | REFORMER  |
|   | CHRISTOPHER JAMES WALTON      |                             |                         |                       | NO                                 | ESTABLISHMENT   |
|   | BONNIE L. JOHNSON             | YES                         | YES                     | NO-SHOW for Vote      | NO                                 |   |
|   | KRISTINA M. SPILLANE          |                             |                         |                       | NO                                 | ESTABLISHMENT   |
| 2nd Worcester   | JAMES E. KNOWLTON             | YES                         | YES                     | YES                   | YES                                | REFORMER  |
|   | BRENT J. ANDERSEN             | NO                          | NO-SHOW for Vote        | NO                    | NO                                 | ESTABLISHMENT   |
|   | CAROL E. CLAROS               | YES                         | YES                     | YES                   |                                    | REFORMER  |
|   | MINDY J. MCKENZIE-HEBERT      | NO                          | NO                      | NO                    |                                    | ESTABLISHMENT   |
| WORCESTER, HAMPSHIRE, & MIDDLESEX                         | WILLIAM J. GILLMEISTER        | YES                         | YES                     | YES                   | YES                                | REFORMER  |
|   | REED V. HILLMAN               |                             |                         |                       | NO                                 | ESTABLISHMENT   |
|   | RONNA K. PRUNIER              | YES                         | YES                     | YES                   | YES                                | REFORMER  |
|   | LINDSAY A. VALANZOLA          |                             |                         |                       | NO                                 | ESTABLISHMENT   |
| WORCESTER & MIDDLESEX                                     | THOMAS F. ARDINGER            | YES                         | YES                     | YES                   | YES                                | REFORMER  |
|   | MARK P. HAWKE                 |                             |                         |                       | NO                                 | ESTABLISHMENT   |
|   | MELODY B. PHELPS              | YES                         | YES                     | YES                   | YES                                | REFORMER  |
|   | SUSAN E. SMILEY               | NO                          | NO                      | NO                    | NO                                 | ESTABLISHMENT   |
| WORCESTER & NORFOLK                                       | MICHAEL RICHARD POTASKI       | YES                         | YES                     | YES                   | YES                                | REFORMER, Long record of organizing local town committees and working for candidates. |
|   | RYAN STEFFIN CHAMBERLAND      |                             |                         |                       | NO                                 | ESTABLISHMENT, & Gov't Employee   |
|   | JENNIFER B. MODICA            | YES                         | YES                     | YES                   | YES                                | REFORMER  |
|   | KIMBERLY B. ROY               | NO-SHOW for Vote            | NO-SHOW for Vote        | NO                    | NO                                 | ESTABLISHMENT, & Gov't Employee   |

Go to www.VoteCoreValues.org to view UPDATES AND MORE DETAILS, POSTED DAILY.

Conservative Principles First not Last

RE-ELECT

MARY LOU

DAXLAND

First Bristol and Plymouth
Fall River
Freetown
Somerset
Swansea
Westport
Lakeville Rochester

Republican State Committeewoman